FIGHTING BRAVELY MIDDLEBURY GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT 32-0

Bitter Struggle to Hold Back Williams' Team Hopeless Task

WILEY AND WILLIS MIDDLEBURY'S BEST

Blue and White Unable To Withstand Charge of Purple Line

Striving vainly against a constant, withering barrage of straight line-smashing football, the Black Panther went down to defeat 32-0 before the Williams' grid-iron warriors on Weston Field at Williamstown on Saturday afternoon.

On a field wet and slippery, drenched with a morning's rain Middlebury with the old fighting spirit again and again carried the ball to mid-field only to meet at every turn of the game the relentless Purple juggernaut which forced the Blue and White back down the field and over its own goal line.

The game from the Williams' standpoint was the continual use of the familiar tactics of constant, ceaseless hammering of the opponents' weakest spots. Play after play crashed into the Middlebury center and guards, each time for substantial gains. Swooping upon the oval the Purple pressed always forward using the forward pass but infrequently, yet always when so doing with good effect. Howe and Brown of Williams romped through with long runs while Fall proved too elusive for the Middlebury tacklers on several occasions.

For the Blue and White Captain Wiley and "Bo" Willis were the outstanding men in a battle disheartening in its utter futility.

The summary:

WILLIAMS—Mason, Jeffrey, Dawes le; Packard, Butcher, lt; Anderson, Reed, lg; Nott, Cunningham, c; Lawder, Watson, Branley, rg; Rohrbach, Watson, rt; Callaghan, Tenney, Dunlap, re; Fall, Howe, Pyke, qb; Howe, Brown, O. Chase, lhb; Thompson, Smith, Boynton, rhb; R. Chase, Austin, fb.

COOK, '24, RHODES SCHOLAR SAILS

Reginald Lansing ("Doc") Cook, Middlebury '24, Rhodes scholar from Vermont for 1926, sailed for Liverpool Saturday to begin his course of study at Oxford University. Mr. Cook received the degree of Bachelor of Science here and his M. A. at Bread Loaf in 1926, and plans to follow literature during his three years of foreign study.

As an undergraduate he was prominent scholastically, held two editorships, was president of his class during his junior year, and was president of the Undergraduate Association as a senior. He was one of the best all-around track men Middlebury has produced, and graduated as captain of the team. Mr. Cook was a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity.

MISS CLARK TALKS ON CITIZENSHIP

Appeals to Duty and High Ideals Before Large Group of Women

Miss Adele Clark, of Richmond, Va., Second Vice President of the National League of Women Voters, spoke informally to a large group from the Women's College in Pearsons Social Hall Sunday afternoon, on the subject of "Citizenship".

"Women think politics are ugly, and prefer to keep out of them," Miss Clark said. "It is true that there is a sordid and tricky side, but we have no right to let it be so. It is our patriotic duty to change the meaning of the word politics."

The League has its sections for industrial girls, factory workers, professional women, and housekeepers. College girls are helping out in research work in an effort to raise the voting average here in the United States. The League is also interested in international Suffrage and was represented at the International Suffrage Alliance held at Paris, at which there were women delegates from forty nations.

"The women of today have accomplished much," Miss Clark declared. "Educational, economic, and political freedom has already been won. The most difficult task facing you girls is the setting of a single standard of morals. Women of early days showed their heroism on the frontiers. You can show your heroism by keeping a high standard of morals.

"A second important duty for you is the working for world peace. Obtaining world peace will have its spiritual side, without doubt, but the political factor is there, too."

Miss Clark's closing words were an appeal for a "higher standard of citizenship in the world."

Hot Battles in Tennis Tournament

The Hepburn tennis courts have been the scene of much activity this past week. The annual Fall tournament is on! Racquet wielders, veterans and new men, are engaged in a real struggle for the college supremacy.

All the seeded players have reached the fourth round, after some hard battles with Freshmen stars. Wolfskehl '27 was forced to go top speed to overcome Woodbury '30, 6-2, 8-10 and 7-5. Hendrix '27 met stiff opposition in the form of Cook '30, finally forcing the Freshman out, 4-6, 9-7 and 6-3. Thayer is the only 1930 representative left in the running.

The tournament has served to show that there is a wealth of varsity tennis material in the college at the present time. The coming year should be the best that Middlebury has ever had in this sport.

CORRECTION

Through error the name of Miss Dorothy Abel '28 was omitted from the list of the 1926 Handboook staff as published in the Campus of September 29. Miss Abel was Associate Editor of the publication.

"MARCH HARES" TO APPEAR ONCE MORE AT THE PLAYHOUSE

Big Revival of Mid-Winter Success of 1924-25 Due This Month

CRANE AND PALMER AGAIN PLAY LEADS

Cast Composed of Players Familiar to Middlebury Audiences

"March Hares" by Harry Wagstaff Gribble, the three-act fantastic satire which was produced here two years ago this winter with such phenomenal success by the college Dramatic Club will once more be offered to a Middlebury audience during the latter part of this month. The leading roles are again to be played by Miss Ethel Palmer '27 and Edward Payson Crane '27. The production will be staged under the direction of Mervin W. McCutcheon '27.

The revival of this deservedly popular play is to be for the benefit of the college Dramatic Club though not under its auspices, and forming no part of the regular semester schedule of that organization.

"March Hares", described as "a fantastic satire on temperamentalists," was first produced at the Bijou Theatre and later at the Punch and Judy in New York in 1921 and was revived at the Little Theatre in 1923.

Heywood Broun, the eminent dramatic critic has stated that the play has "some of the most agile dialogue that

IMPORTANT NOTICES FROM DEAN'S OFFICE

Since there still appears to be considerable misunderstanding concerning the use of the allowed number of class and chapel absences, the following explanation is published by the Dean.

Each student is held responsible for a knowledge of the rules governing attendance as printed in Section II of the "Regulations of Middlebury College."

The system of allowed cuts was instituted to provide for such emergencies as brief periods of illness, business engagements, social duties, and such similar reasons as seem justifiable to the student. They should, therefore, be saved for such emergencies. No extra allowance will be granted if they are once exhausted, except in cases of serious illness or as otherwise provided. Students are therefore warned not to use their allowance of cuts to satisfy a whim or for some personal convenience, but to look ahead and plan accordingly.

Cuts are posted outside the doors of the Dean's offices in North Painter at five o'clock each Monday afternoon. The list each week should be checked by each student and if an error occurs the student should see their Dean before the offices close on Tuesday. No adjustment will be made after that time unless an extension is obtained.

The Band has a few more vacancies available for those who would like to learn band instruments. If there are any who can play or would like to learn they are asked to report to the Dean of men before Wednesday night at seven o'clock.

Many firms have written to the Dean's office for representatives to sell different goods. Anyone interested should call at the office.

Latest Registration

Revised figures from the College Registrar's office to date indicate that the total number of students now enrolled in all departments of the college is as listed below,

| | Men | Women |
|---|---|---|
| Seniors | 43 | 55 |
| Juniors | 59 | 67 |
| Sophomores | 94 | 81 |
| Freshmen | 133 | 78 |

WILLIAM F. FALES MADE SENIOR HEAD

Former Junior President Is Again Class Leader for Final Year

William F. Fales, Rockville Center, Long Island, N. Y., was re-elected president of the class of 1927 at the senior meeting held Thursday afternoon in Old Chapel. Other officers elected were: vice president, Ruth L. Howland, Worcester, Mass.; secretary, Cleone Comings, Richford, Vt.; treasurer, Stanton S. Eddy, Middlebury.

Mr. Fales' long record of activities shows him worthy of the honor of re-election. In his freshman year he was on both the freshman football and basketball teams and was for two years on the tennis squad. Besides serving as class president during his junior year, Mr. Fales served on the Inter-Fraternity Council, and the Student Council. He was also circulation manager of the 1927 Kaleidoscope. He is now manager of the Varsity football team, and is one of three senior men elected to Waubanakee, senior honorary society. Mr. Fales is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Miss Howland, vice president elect, is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority. She served as House Chairman at Battell Cottage during her junior year, and was a member of the Junior Prom committee.

Miss Comings has been very active in dramatic and musical work. Last May she had the title role in the Junior play "Honor Bright." She is a member of the Glee Club, the College choir, and Wig and Pen. She is also active in Y. W. C. A. work. Miss Comings is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Y. M. C. A. Plans Extensive Program

The opening meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held Friday evening in Hepburn Social Hall. Arthur Brush '29, president of the organization, welcomed the new members and outlined the program for the coming year. Plans were made for furthering the work on the campus and deputation work outside of Middlebury.

It was also decided to change the time of meeting from Friday to 6:45 o'clock Thursday evenings.

Clarence P. Young, '28, will represent the Middlebury Y. M. C. A. at the New England Field Council meeting at Boston, October 9 and 10.

Philip Elliott, the New England student's secretary, was at Middlebury last Monday and met the members of the cabinet.

Fifty-four couples made merry at the first informal of the year held last Saturday evening in the gymnasium. The College Orchestra furnished the music for the dancers and Professor and Mrs. Julius Kingsley, with Professor and Mrs. Harry Fife, chaperoned.

UNUSUAL CULTURAL OPPORTUNITIES OFFERED TO COLLEGE

Entertainment Series For Winter and Spring Promise Much

GRAINGER, HOLMES, ET AL. TO APPEAR

Eight Evenings of Concert and Lecture For Very Low Prices

One of the most attractive Entertainment and Concert Series which has been offered at Middlebury in recent years, including vocal and instrumental music, travelogues, literary and other lectures, and introducing to the Middlebury public such men of note as Percy Grainger, Burton Holmes and Roy Chapman Andrews, will be presented here during the coming season. This course entertainment will furnish eight evenings of unsurpassed enjoyment for all Middlebury students and townspeople. All numbers of this series will be presented in the Congregational Church except the Holmes and Andrews lectures which will be given in the town hall.

On the evening of Oct. 20, Charles Stratton, well known tenor of New York City, will open the course by a song recital. Mr. Stratton has toured the country in private recital and has appeared as soloist with such reputable organizations as the Boston, New York and Detroit Symphony Orchestras.

On the evening of Nov. 2 Burton Holmes, internationally known traveler and lecturer, will present one of his 1926-27 travelougues. Each year Mr. Holmes visits some far-off corner of the earth gathering rare collections of fine motion and still pictures.

Frank Swinerton, the distinguished English novelist and critic, will be the fourth entertainer of the series, appearing on Nov. 16. This distinguished visitor who is making a brief tour of this country, will take as his subject "Authors, Their Friends and Their Critics".

Walter Mills, the promising young baritone of New York City, will appear in the series on the evening of Dec. 1.

Roy Chapman Andrews, returning from Mongolia early next month, will appear Dec. 10. Mr. Andrews, who has been in charge of the Third Asiatic Expedition covering a period of four

"CASEY" JONES '15 TAKES AIR TROPHY

Charles "Casey" Jones '15, veteran civilian air pilot was the winner of the Independence Hall Trophy, the main event in the National air races held last month on the outskirts of Philadelphia. "Casey" made the seven laps of the 84 mile course at an average rate of 136.11 miles per hour. He used in this race his Curtiss Oriole with which he has won for three successive years the free-for-all race for low-powered planes piloted by civilian aviators.

Mr. Jones, after his graduation from Middlebury, was physical director at Montclair Academy, Montclair, N. J., until June, 1917, when he joined the United States Air Service in which he served as 1st Lieutenant until January, 1919. From July to November, 1918, he also served in the 96th Escadrille Pursuit Group 19 of the French Army. Since leaving the service he has been connected with the Curtiss Airplane Co., the last six years as manager of the Curtiss Exhibition Co.

When does a team need loyal support?—When it's hardest pressed!

Every Middlebury man and woman get behind that team and cheer. The support we give now will help to keep on to victory.

FRESHMEN! WHO WILL LEAD?

Class of 1930, you are now a part of Middlebury College. For two weeks you have been among us and by this time, as a class and as individuals, you should begin to sense something of what it means to be a college man or woman. You should have some realization of the fact that college is a matter not alone of privileges but also of responsibilities. You should have begun to grasp the fact that the organization of the college, both within and without the class room requires active student support involving leadership, initiative and mental stamina to carry on to success. Though you are yet but Freshmen, and as such are not yet trusted with control, yet you must realize that three years from today your class will be the Senior, and will have, in the natural course of events, the major share in directing college student activities. And as a class, if you are to be of any avail, you must develop leaders. This means that certain of you, as individuals who today are undistinguishable in the mass will emerge from the common background, will stand out above the others, and will form the nucleus of the directing group.

It is to you few—those whom personality shall make the future leaders—that this editorial, the first of a series, is directed. Their purpose will be, first to aid you to gain a certain prespective of relative values; second to warn you of certain pitfalls in your path that you may avoid them; lastly to instill within your minds something of the traditions which should be a part of a Middlebury leader's background.

You are, en masse, the products of many environments. Many of you are at school away from home for the first time in your lives. Most of you are, for the first time, thrown absolutely on your own as to your conduct. Previous records are of no value to you now, except as they have fitted you for winning new laurels here. What you do here from now on will be the sole indication to us of your worth.

Coming as you do from varying environments your viewpoints are as diverse as your previous training. This being so there should arise from the contacts you will all have with one another a valuable exchange of ideas, an enlarging of each one's knowledge of human nature, a smoothing of rough edges, and a quickening of mental reaction. But likewise, because of this very condition, situations are constantly arising which may, if you are not careful, do you more harm than good. A college man or woman needs a level head to be successful; at no time more so than in Freshman year. If you want to go to perdition no one will stop you, nor pull you up after you fall in. "Look out for yourself" is the motto of college life. But a little advice at first from upper classmen may perhaps make your way to success the clearer.

In the first place get down to business in your studies at once. Lack of application in the first half of freshman year is one of the commonest causes of disaster among the entering class. This does not mean that you should be a grind nor a pedant—far from it. But when you study—study. First impressions are often permanent and to win the respect of the professors early in your career is of invaluable aid to you later on. Besides, after all, you are presumably here primarily for college work. You are paying for the privilege and dodging of study is merely a blind way of stealing from yourself.

Next get out and mingle with your classmates from the start. Make acquaintances. Some of these in time will ripen into friendships—one of the great treasures you should carry with you from the college. But do not chose your bosom friend too quickly. The old saying though trite is true, that a man is known by the company he keeps. Remember Polonious' advice to Laertes. Size up the people you meet, and then, as you find them worthy, form your lasting friendships.

That leads to the next point. The best way of gaining a wide acquaintance is undoubtedly through extra-curricular activites, atheltics, publications, committee, etc. If you are wise you will at once go out for that line of work for which you are best fitted, and keep plugging at it. Whether you finally attain to the higher offices or not is of minor importance. Honor is fleeting and very hollow, but the experience gained from association with fellow workers is invaluable.

But outside activities can very easily be overdone. Therein lies your second pitfall. No one person can do everything at once. Too many irons in the fire means paying too little attention to each. Especially is that true in Freshman year when you must learn the college ways at the same time that you do your work. Much promising material has been ruined by too early forcing. Do not worry if you do not become extremely prominent in your first year. A Delta Tau at the end of freshman year is rarely the Waubanakee of the last. The fatality among freshmen leaders is high. You must creep before you walk. You must walk before you run. Lay solid foundations and the super-structure will take care of itself.

Remember that—and go in and win!

Beatitudes, True Ideals Says Adams at Vespers

Rev. C. C. Adams of First Congregational Church of Burlington, spoke at Vespers, Sunday, on Christ's Sermon on the Mount. He pointed out that in too many cases our ideals are direct opposites of those given in the Sermon on the Mount, "Blessed are the Poor;" "Blessed are the Meek", and so on through the Beatitudes. "All of us have our ideal of a better world," he said. "We must lift our personal ideals higher if we expect to make the world a better place in which to live. We must be true to ourselves and free from hypocricy. We should try to make our righteousness match the shining light of God.

President Moody will be the principal speaker of the evening at a dinner of the Bethel Community Brotherhood on Friday evening, October 8, at Bethel, Vt.

W. M. Meacham '21 has accepted a position as superintendent of the Farm and Trade school on Thompson's Island, Boston Harbor, Mass.

"March Hares" To Return Again To Playhouse

our theatre has known, and reveals its author as the possessor of a rare gift for nonsense. And his nonsense is not just for the sheer trick of the thing but moulded with satirical intent." Robert C. Benchley writing in "Life" says of it—"three acts without one using old stuff. Practically every line, every situation, every character is the creation of Harry Wagstaff Gribble."

Those who were fortunate enough to see the original Middlebury production realize the above is known to be no exaggeration. The play as staged here two years ago was amazingly perfect both in interpretation of character and handling of setting. The revival promises to be no less noteworthy. Miss Palmer, Mr. Crane, Miss Ohart and Mr. McCutcheon who were all members of the original cast will again appear in their respective roles, while the new members of the cast have all made previous successful appearances on the college stage. The performance well deserves the over-worked adjective all-star.

Further details will be published next week.

years, will present his motion picture illustrated lecture, "Hunting the Bones of Adam."

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, internationally known musical authority, lecturer, and critic, will be the sixth number of the series. Dr. Spaeth's winning personality has never failed to interest his audience.

Another treat in the musical line will be the concert to be given by the Boston Trio, Louise Burt Wood, contralto soloist.

Perhaps the greatest artist of those to be heard in the series will be Percy Grainger, world renowned pianist. Mr. Grainger has been hailed as the most stimulating personality among the pianists of this generation. His American tour extends from January to May, 1927. He will be in Middlebury on May 17th.

Season tickets for the series will be offered at eight dollars ($8.00) flat price for the entire number of entertainments or five dollars ($5.00) for a ticket admitting to any four.

With the hemispherical integrator the illuminating engineer measures light intensities and distribution. These laboratory findings are practically applied to improve our everyday illumination.

When the sun goes down

More than 350,000,000 incandescent lamps, with a combined light of nine billion candlepower, make city streets, stores, and homes brighter than ever before.

In bungalow or mansion, workshop or factory, dormitory or auditorium, there is no excuse for poor illumination. We have cheaper and better lighting in the electric lamp than ever before; for the dollar that bought 1,115 candlepower-hours of light with the carbon-filament lamps of 1886, now buys 16,200 candlepower-hours of light with the MAZDA lamps.

Not only more light, but correctly applied light, is the order of the day. The electric lamp, with its flameless yet highly concentrated light source, lends itself ideally to reflectors, shades, and screens. It is controlled light—safe light. And illumination becomes an exact science.

During college days and in after life, correct lighting must ever be of paramount importance to the college man and woman. Good lighting is the worthy handmaiden of culture and progress.

The General Electric Company is the world's largest manufacturer of incandescent lamps. And behind the G-E Mazda lamps are vast research laboratories dedicated to cheaper and better electric illumination, and to the conservation of eyesight.

A series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

TEAM REORGANIZES FOR MAINE BATTLE

After Saturday's disastrous 32 to 0 argument with Williams, Coach Klevenow is faced this week with the task of reorganizing Middlebury's football team and, in a few days, finding the combination of men which will give him the teamwork to defeat the University of Maine on Porter Field Saturday.

There is weight in our line; there is speed in the backfield. The rearrangement of his men to bring out to advantage both that weight and speed is Coach Klevenow's problem.

Maine comes with an advantage of weight. Heavy men compose the squad which has the record of a state's championship last season. What the Panther will do to the Pine Tree staters is another matter, however, from the viewpoint of both Maine and Middlebury.

"Mike" Furbush, Palmer, and Jones, in all probability, will be unable to appear in the home season-opener because of injuries. Jones still limps from an injury received in the Wesleyan contest, while Furbush and Palmer have injuries left by the Williams game. Palmer, new on the line-up this season, was a fast, shifty back; Furbush and Jones will be missed to tear through the Maine defense. But by drawing on material from last year's freshman squad, Coach Klevenow is confident he will fill their places and send M. U. back to the pines humbled.

THEY FEEL FINE!
OSM

THEY feel fine—how do they look? There's the mirror. Isn't it surprising how these folks can put a pair of soles on a shoe and make it look like it did originally?

Surprising—but true.

CAMEL
TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES
HAVE A CAMEL

Camels add the charm of living

WHETHER through the tasks of every day, or in life's moments of crisis and great reward, the comfort and understanding of Camel cheers us on our way. For no other cigarette was ever so friendly, so loyal as Camel. The unfathomed goodness, the deep underlying quality of Camel tobaccos is ever-dependable.

The world's largest tobacco organization buys the best of everything for Camels. The choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown. The kind of blending that only such a group of experts could give. Regardless of what you are willing to pay, there is no other cigarette like Camel; there can be no better cigarette made than Camels. Camels never tire the taste, no matter how indefatigably you smoke them, never leave a cigaretty after-taste.

If you don't yet know Camel enjoyment, just sample the most exquisite fragrance that ever came from a cigarette. Have a Camel!
